Promoter of the Omaha Roads to Liberty Un-Convention, a non-profit event under the legal and financial responsibility of my "2017 Omaha Un-Convention, LLC" corporation

I have had verbal and email discussions with John Engle and Mike Fishbein of Paladin Strategies about their availability to speak at the Omaha Un-Convention and provide their advice on event publicity. We have not agreed on any specifics yet since the event is 8 month away. Paladin Strategies has done no work yet for the Un-Convention nor has any compensation been discussed although I will certainly be offering at a minimum to cover their travel and lodging expense

I have offered some LNC members and LNC staff the opportunity to speak at the Un-Convention and have suggested arrangements to cover their travel and lodging expense

Perhaps most relevantly, I have a conflict of interest between my support for the Libertarian Party and my support for the larger libertarian movement of which it is a part. Specific individuals and organizations can and often do go astray, but the libertarian movement, defined as all the individuals and organizations consciously working for freedom at any point in time, is essentially right by definition. Therefore, as an activist in the historic struggle for worldwide freedom, my highest allegiance will always be to the movement and the cause for which it stands, and not to the narrow interests of any particular group. For reasons that should be obvious, I hope that all of us on the LNC will have this same conflict of interest, and I encourage my fellow members to join me in formally declaring it, as a signal that you hold your commitment to freedom ahead of any narrower parochial interest.
